Every Epic Fashion Look Beyoncé Wears in Her ‘Spirit’ Music Video for ‘The Lion King’

Beyoncé's new video for The Lion King's "Spirit" just dropped and it's filled with so many incredible looks, we can hardly pick a favorite. So instead, we're just going to obsess over every single one.

A beautiful celebration of African culture, the four-and-a-half minute-long clip weaves together shots from the movie with snippets of Queen Bey singing and dancing all while looking absolutely fabulous (obviously).

Styled by Zerina Akers, the voice of Nala showcases ten standout looks ranging from a ruffled full-skirt dress to a graphic black and white pantsuit to a piece entirely made up of pearl-like embellishments. Shot at Havasu Falls in the Grand Canyon, the desert landscape serves as Beyoncé's runway as she embraces a variety of colors, prints and designs.

According to Vogue, the different costume pieces were a mix of custom and couture from designers all over the world. For instance, Dakar-based label Tongoro Studio recreated its black and white Bamako print to turn it into a tailored pantsuit, while Brazilian brand Maison Alexandrine created the cowrie shell dress.

Pretty Pearls

Made completely out of pearl-like embellishments, this Maison Alexandrine shell dress is a real beauty.
